

INTRO

My name is James and I am taking this class so I can eventually take the animation class here in City College. I don't really want to become an animator as a profession but something as a side hustle perhaps? My main career goal is to become a Master Auto Technician. Unfortunately, due to Covid spreading quicker than anticipated, my goals have been temporarily halted as of late and I have switched to prepare for a secondary career until Covid has ended.

FEEL THE HEAT

WTF??

PSD

So for this one, all I really gotta say about it is that I really like how it worked out in the end I just bundled up a bunch of shit that I really like and things that made me, me. (At the time). So cars were a must, so Initial D was put in there. Tattoos are another thing I am very fond of so I had one of my favorites put in the background The character in the car was in a karaoke scene and I really love karaoke, singing and music, so I put him in the car because it looked funny. The monster energy thing was something my friend told me to put because he decided to put monster energy cans in every single one of his projects, and because he helped me with this one, it was like his special touch. And last, the guy

VECTOR

So I like Squidward and at the time I was playing a game where there was a badass priest guy, and I thought to myself Squidward the Pastor. So really there is nothing much to say about this piece besides that I really like how the background really fits with the rest of the image.

MOTION

For this one, it was my friend's idea for the voices and I just made the animation based off of what he said. It was like a parody of sorts because you know that Squidward the Pastor image I made before. And because he was based off of the priest in the game I was playing, he HAD to pull out a gun from the bible, because that was what the priest did in the game. There was a hidden gun residing inside the bible. This was my most favorite piece because I finally animated something after over a year.