

Hi everyone!

My name is Thuy Anh Thu but please call me just Lynn: I have just been in the U:S for more than I year and this is my first design class:

Although I love art, I am a newbie in the Design field because I didn't have any chance to follow my passion before and Visual Media Design is one of primary classes for me to go further: I have learned many things in this course and created several works that I didn't even think I could before: The only thing that makes me regret that I don't have a chance to work more closely with you guys:

Here is my work in Adobe Illustrator: At first, I was very worried because I was afraid that I couldn't create any character that fixes the work from Baster Project: I always want to create an eagle that is the symbol of freedom and power: Then I realized it could work well in this project: Opposite with the previous project, the thing seemed to go more smoothly than I thought: I added many layers and used various gradient to make the eagle look more natural: Honestly, I really enjoyed the whole process time and love the result:
